

---

Library Links in Google Scholar Settings are grayed out (greyed out)

- Product: Alma
-

Question

Trying to add a library to Google Scholar via "Library Links" search, the library information is in gray (grey).

Answer

IP range restriction was defined. Users out of the IP range can't customize the search by this library.

Full-text delivery will be provided via the Proxy server, if defined, similar to Primo Central. Thus, if discovery shouldn't be restricted, remove IP limitations:

1. Navigate to: Resources > Publishing > Publishing Profiles > Publish electronic records to Google Scholar
2. For the GS profile click: Actions > Edit
3. Change to "No" the selection for: "Show resolver links only to users that come from your IP range?"
4. Empty the IP range
5. Save
6. Recheck that the changes were saved (some libraries reported issues regarding save of info)

---

Additional Information

The change apply after the next publishing to Google Scholar and Google's crawl of the file, usually by the following Tuesday or Wednesday.

More about Publishing to Google is in the Alma Online Help, click here.

-
- Article last edited: 22-JAN-2018