Question

Are there any special configuration requirements for changing to a private IP space? Specifically, these changes are being made:

- * Public-facing IP should remain the same
- * Internally, server is moving to private IP space
- * The server IP address will change
- * The server DNS address will change

Answer

- * The only technical changes required are the same for any standard IP address change.

Additional Information

Your local IT department is responsible for any firewall and routing configuration.
