Question

Do the command line options for client installs in 7.2 still apply for 8.0? We couldn't find documentation in 8.0 that lists setup switches.

Answer

Yes, the .BAT method is still available. Voyager 8.0 adds AutoUpdate functionality¹, and the .BAT method was removed from the documentation, but is still valid. You can refer to earlier versions of the Technical User's Guide for information on the .BAT install method.

Additional Information

Issue 16384-17841: VoyagerInstall.msi: no GDC flag for EIS_APP="" is resolved in Voyager 8.2.0, and .BAT method re-added to Technical User's Guide.

¹ NOTE: With increased security of Windows systems, AutoUpdate has become increasingly problematic to implement and support. In some environments it no longer works. Support recommends you consider different options/methods for installing new clients.
