

Fulfillment

What analytic reports and statistics are available for fulfillment activities?

Analytics includes 3 comprehensive subject areas in the area of circulation: Fulfillment, Fines and Fees, and Requests. An example of the Fulfillment subject area can be seen following:

Examples of reports in these areas:

Loan Statistics by Library:

The bibliographic details dimension is a shared dimension in the fulfillment subject area. As an example, it is possible to create a report that counts loans by title:

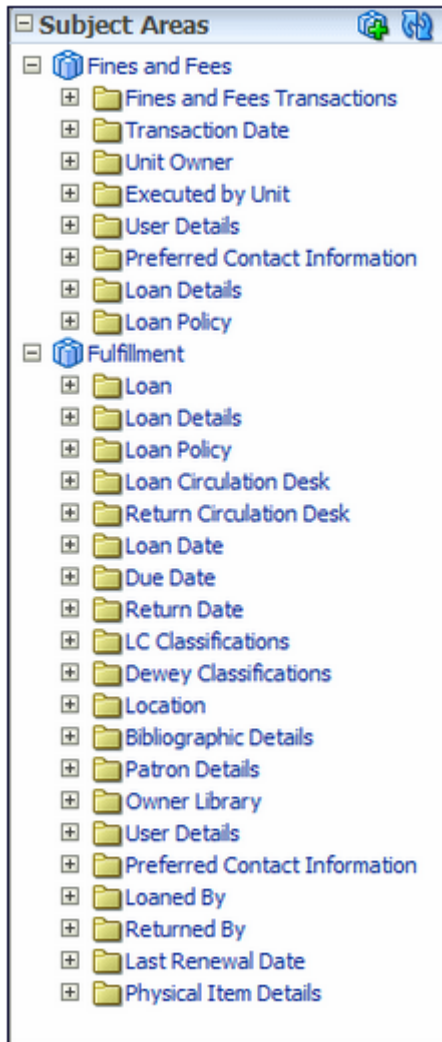

ISBN ID	Title	Call Number	Loans
991463930000121	Dish dialects and Dish-speaking districts: three lectures.		125
99146420000121	Die Gärtnerei aus Lüneburg = La fête jardinière / (sommeil Ober /	981.076 .D3	46

991706390000121	Pride and prejudice: /		9

The Users dimension is also part of the Fulfillment subject area and can be used to generate circulation statistics – e.g. by library and user group. For anonymized circulation data only information on the user group and statistical categories will be available:

User Group	Loan Days	Loans	Average loan days
Administrative Staff	237	53	4
Alumni	84	68	1
Distance Learners	0	2	0
Faculty	1,276	35	36
Graduate Student	365	22	17
Undergraduate Student	5,315	346	15
Walk In Loans - Network Members	0	1	0

The example below shows the subject area for fines and fees. The transactions are the measurable facts, and all the other attributes are dimensions. This allows for the easy measurement of expenditure by vendor, fund, purchase type, date ranges, classification etc... and any combination of these.

Most dimensions are composed of multiple levels, for example Date à Quarter à Fiscal period, or Collection à Location à Library, so drilldowns on the reports are possible without any additional work.

Reports which cross subject areas are possible through dimensions, which are shared by multiple subject areas. For example, Classification is a joint dimension of Expenditure and Circulation subject areas so it is possible to create reports that match expenditure and usage of a specific location.

This subject area can easily provide multi-year trend reports on circulation activities per location, classification, and user types.

Can data about the operator receiving fine payment be reported on?

Alma Analytics supports a dedicated user dimension to capture the staff user information for fine/fee creation and processing.

These fields allow Alma to correctly record information about the staff user who created and/or processed a fine/fee.
