
360 KB: Guide to Wiley Online Library Journals databases

Which Wiley journals databases should I track?

Wiley Online Library journal content is represented in the 360KB by several databases which mirror the subscriptions offered by Wiley. We have been working with the provider to standardize our database names in order to align with their subscription model. Please refer to the following information so that you may track the databases best aligned to your particular Wiley subscription.

This page will be updated as new Wiley Online Library Journals collections become available.

Overview

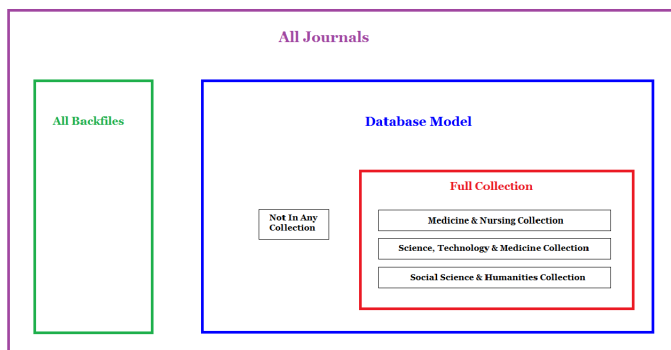

The Wiley sales model offers a number of curated collections. Wiley provided these titles lists to us in KBART format which we update and load into our 360KB on a monthly basis, which matches their update schedule. The Wiley collections are represented annually by the following 360KB databases:

- Wiley Online Library Database Model [Year]
- Wiley Online Library Full Collection [Year]
- Wiley Online Library Medicine & Nursing Collection [Year]
- Wiley Online Library Science, Technology and Medicine Collection [Year]
- Wiley Online Library Social Science and Humanities Collection [Year]

Additionally, Wiley provide us with a number of informational titles lists which are not formal collections but which allow institutions to supplement their holdings portfolios with additional Wiley content to which they are entitled. These, as well, are supplied to us in KBART format, which we update monthly. In the 360KB, these lists also appear as databases. These informational lists are represented by the following 360KB databases:

- Wiley Online Library All Journals
- Wiley Online Library All Backfiles
- Wiley Online Library Not In Any Collection [Year]

Together, we offer all of these 360KB databases in order to help you track all of the titles to which your institution is entitled, with the various permutations of date coverage that are offered by Wiley. The following diagram illustrates the relationships of the various collections and informational lists, and their constituent titles, to one another. Specific details about the various databases follow after that.

Journals Standard Collections

The Full Collection is a subscription collection that contains front file access to a number of Wiley journals, though contrary to the name not all of the front file titles (see notes on the Database Model below). The Full Collection is also a superset containing all of the titles in the following subordinate collections:

- Medicine and Nursing Collection (M&N)
- Science, Technology and Medicine Collection (STM)
- Social Science and Humanities Collection (SSH)

Libraries who purchase the Full Collection will have access to the STM, SSH, and M&N titles.

In the 360KB, clients should subscribe to the entirety of these databases -- rather than tracking individual titles -- as clients who purchase these collections through Wiley are entitled to all the titles listed in their titles lists.

Not In Any Collection

The Not in Any Collections (NiAC) database contains front file content that is not part of the Standard Collections. It is meant to be more informational and does not represent any Wiley Sales Model. The NiAC was intended for customers who have the Full collection but need to track additional front file journals a la carte that their institution purchases.

In the 360KB, clients should only track individual titles from this database to which they have access.

Database Model

The Wiley Online Library Database Model contains all journal front file content. Libraries who have purchased the Database Model can safely assume that they have access to all front file journal content.

In the 360KB, clients should subscribe to the entirety of this database -- rather than tracking individual titles -- as clients who purchase this collection through Wiley are entitled to all the titles listed in the titles list.

"A-Z Lists"

These databases are not true subscription collections as offered by Wiley. Rather, they are informational lists -- compiled by Wiley and made available to us -- which represent all available Wiley journal content. We represent them in our 360 Knowledge Base so that mutual clients may track individual titles to which they may be entitled above and beyond what is available in the standard collections. In this way, clients may customized their holdings portfolios to accurately represent their full entitlements.

If your institution has access to any title beyond what is listed in the standard collections, please select those titles a la carte from the following databases.
