

Suppressing New Record in Network Member

Description

When creating a new bibliographic record in a member institution of a network, the suppress/unsuppress options are disabled. Only if the record is cached to the member institution, the option to suppress is available.

Network Zone records that are not cached to the institution, the suppress option is disabled.

Network Zone linked records (cached to the institution) with or without inventory or local extensions, the suppress option is enabled, and suppressing the record affects only the linked version.

A new Network Zone record in a member institution contains NO cached version, therefore the suppress option is disabled.
